HORRIBLY HUMDRUM - Raquel Bonita. Bookolia

There are dull, boring, tedious, tiresome, sleep-inducing, interminable, frustrating, horribly humdrum days... or maybe not? The most boring day for you, can be the most exciting adventure for somebody else. Because there is no accounting for taste, a party can be the greatest party for someone or the most terrible for another. Same with food, music, or anything you can imagine. A story that is two stories. Who is speaking here? Can you guess? Two different points of view. Which one you prefer?

TOPICS: BE BORED, IMAGINATION, HUMOUR

JOSEFA GIRAFFE - Valeria Kiselova, Raquel Bonita. Asturlibros

A PLANE TO FLIGHT - Daniel Cañas, Ale Senso

Mario is a very curious child. He is always attentive to what is happening around him. While they report the latest news on the radio, he happily plays with his plane.

Through Mario's eyes we discover the peaceful gaze of childhood on the world. It's all part of a game where an overflowing imagination is capable of making us spread our wings and fly. Daniel Cañas creates a poetic text that plays with the double meaning of some words that go from being related to the field of war to the everyday imagination of a child. Ale Senso interprets this life-damaging transformation into illustrations with a dreamlike touch and strongly symbolic that leave you breathless.

THE SADDEST BOOK IN THE WORLD - Florencia del Campo, Leticia Esteban

A teacher reads The Saddest Book in the World to the boys and girls. But that book is a bit confusing: is it sad? Is it scary? Is it for adults? Is it a silly book? There are those who don't understand anything, others have gotten involved in the story, and some have gotten bored. The only important thing is that it ends, but to know how it ends, you have to read it.

We don't know if it's sad. The saddest book in the world, but that's the best, that's for sure....

WHAT I WOULD LIKE - Francesca Fanizza, Cecilia Cavallini

A dialogue between a little girl and her mother.

The little girl wants to play: she wants to be asked what she would like.

It's kind of what we all want, that someone finally asks us what we would like... and that in reality, almost never happens. This game will lead, yes, to responses typical of the imaginative world of childhood, but also to some that are deeper and more thoughtful.

In the end, mother and daughter will discover that they have points of view in common, even unexpected ones, and that they are not so different after all.

TIME TO DREAM - Concha Pasamar

Bedtime is a special time in childhood. That moment when, tired after a long day, what we have experienced runs through our minds, reading sometimes accompanies this moment and even, sometimes, wakefulness, sleep and reading come together. That's what happens to our protagonist just when he goes to sleep. The shadows that the lit lamp in his room projects on the wall make him live an adventure in which fantastic characters intermingle with literary ones. The voice of the narration itself creates a game between mysterious and magical, fun and at the same time hypnotic, which is mixed with the always delicate illustrations of Concha Pasamar.

THE BEST PET IN THE WORLD - Arianna Squilloni, Karina Letelier

Arianna Squilloni has crafted a beautiful story which grows out of a short and sweet conversation between two friends: one is a daydreamer who has fallen in love with a small snail (the best pet in the world), but her pal is much more analytical. While the first girl presents a wildly idealized vision of the little creature, the second provides genuine data to situate the snail within the world. It’s a story with elements of an informational picture book, a picture book exploring friendship and freedom as extraordinary gifts, the love of little things, and the transformative power of a child’s gaze.

This album, with a circular and iterative structure, presents us with a beautiful journey through the natural cycle, which harmoniously balances a planet currently threatened by man. In it, the diversity of our planet and the connection of man with Nature are valued, as one more element of a rich chain of which we are an essential part. This itinerary culminates with a call to action by the protagonist, the child who recognizes himself as part of the fragile balance of nature. The message is reinforced with the colorful illustrations by Colombian illustrator Gina Rosas Moncada, winning illustrator at Bologna Children's Book Fair 2022 Illustrators Exhibition

An album, written and illustrated by Paco Ortega, places us in a subtle way before the drama of migration and everything that is left behind when this uncertain journey is undertaken. Alika, curled up on her mother's lap before falling asleep, wonders what her surprise will be for her the next day. In this way, she goes over everything that she longs for and that she has left behind. A text that invites reverie and pinches our dearest memories.

CALM - Nanen

Faced with her son's constant demands, our protagonist feels the need to seek out calm, a quiet space, a moment to herself. Bit by bit, lines of tiles fade, finally disappearing to become a pool of serene waters she dives into in search of tranquillity.

Calm is a hymn to unconditional love and parents' emotional balance. A book which only needs a few words to wonderfully capture the importance of respectful motherhood which is always founded in parents' well-being and love for our children.

TOPICS: FAMILY, CALM, LOVE

ABSTRACTED - Nanen

Msr Julia is a tender and endearing grandmother who spends her days at home, alone, preparing her beautiful dress for the holidays, but due to her incredible capacity for distraction, she never manages to finish it.

So, year after year, when it comes time to enjoy them, she decides to stay home and watch others have fun and wear her beautiful dresses.

She is happy like that, in her solitude. But this year, however, it seems that it will be different.

SHE WOLF - Pablo Albo, Cecilia Moreno

SHE WOLF is a beautiful illustrated album that invites us to share the path of a wolf.

As the jury said:

Pablo Albo's text is extraordinary. Short, concise sentences string themselves together; no word is too much. The rhythm of the words and sentences, the repetitions, pauses and ellipses create a magic and astonishing pull, even though the text seems sparse and nothing spectacular happens in the story. A she-wolf trots through the forest, rain drops fall one after the other, an ant runs up a tree and back down again, timid rabbits are watchful, the wind blows, the evening breaks, stars shine in the night-time sky. The minimalist, carefully structured, repetitive, purely descriptive and somewhat hermetic text is congenially echoed in Cecilia Moreno's pictures. Monochrome shapes, lines, dots merge at times into geometric patterns. The sense of order is reinforced by the background of chequered paper. »Loba« is an original picture book, with brilliantly composed text and illustrations. A true discovery.

WORDS - Guridi

Words is a work of art to offer as a gift, a jewel for young and old lovers of the picture books. A book that talks about communication, love, a kind of visual poem that leads us by the hand through a series of illustrations that represent the human figure, the double pages serve as a border between the two interlocutors in each scene and in them we intuit the Words that are implicit between both faces, sometimes they communicate, others are silent, sometimes they turn their backs or are upside down, visual metaphors of everything that we keep inside us and that is sometimes so difficult to express. Words is a way of doing it ... without having to say a word, simply by offering this book as a gift, sharing it, reading it silently together.

ALL BUT ONE - Raquel Bonita

This is the story about a curious little mole. He follows a little bee and discovers a beautiful and different world in the surface. But when he wants to go back home, he feels lost.

This picture book has two different readings. In one hand this is a story about how children need to discover the world and the wonderful it is, but also the necessity of being carefull and not leave our parents or family because we can feel lost. In the other hand the book talks about how parents have to help their kids to make this discovery. Kids cannot live “underground”, because children's curiosity is stronger than anything.

A CONTRARY STORY - Tullio Corda

A cat awake, a dog asleep. A brave cat, a scared dog. A slow dog, a fast cat ...

The story told in this book can be summed up in a few words: just one per page and its opposite on the opposite page. And this conciseness allows both to follow the story, simple and entertaining, to appreciate the visual representation of these two opposite words. And visual history also shows us that although the dog and the cat bicker and chase each other, they are not enemies but friends!

MISTER FAIRY - Morgane de Cadier, Florian Pigé

In the forest, no two fairies are the same. You have the sleep fairy, the morning fairy, the tooth fairy...And there is Mister Fairy. He is not like any other fairy, because he always fails to cast simple spells, making everyone laughs. One day, he decides to visit the strange grey forest that lies ahead, where everybody seems sad. There, his failed spells bring smiles on the faces of everybody. And when he comes back to the forest, he discovers that since he's been away, happiness has been gone too. That's how he discovered what kind of fairy he is...

CANIS LUPUS - Nicolas Duffaut

This project was born from a series of sumptuous drawings of wolves made by the talented Nicolas Duffaut: for years we wanted to bring together the wolves of this illustrator that we adore in a very beautiful book... With regard to these wolves we have chosen to select texts by authors, great authors, essential in this theme such as Jack London or the Grimms, but also by less expected authors on this theme, such as Phèdre, Prokofiev, Maurice Carême, La Comtesse de Ségur...

Nicolas Duffaut poses next to these beautiful texts in prose or verse bewitching, frightening, majestic, protective wolves: a new and vibrant gallery of portraits, of this famous protagonist of literature that is the big bad wolf...

TWO GARDENERS - Fabienne Roulié, Nicolas Duffaut

This is the story of two neighbors, a bear and a monkey, who dream of seeing blue flowers grow in their fields for one, and palm trees for the other. Two desires and two very different ways of doing things for these two neighbors who are not so alike but whose horticultural projects bring closer. This story makes us understand that realizing a dream or a project requires effort, work, and that we are sometimes dependent on chance, conditions, and the weather.

NO ONE - Adèle Tariel, Baptiste Puaud

Under the shock of the threat of a global pandemic, each human being followed in the spring of 2020, the instructions for a first confinement, definitively striking: this suspended world, these empty streets, this silence, carried something within them. original and disturbing, but also poetic. It is this empty and nonetheless so beautiful world that this album describes to us: a world stopped, frozen, on pause, in which nature slowly reclaims its rights, a world without anyone, offering a poetic and sensitive support for our children, to reflect on this episode which marked them and questions us about the world of tomorrow.

TOPICS: CONFINEMENT, NATURE, POETRY, LIFE

THE LOST WORLD - Adèle Tariel, Jérôme Peyrat

Le Monde perdu is a large treasure map to unfold: As the map is unfolded, we discover, in the opposite illustrated backs, the adventure of a young cartographer taken away by a band of pirates, set off to discover a mysterious lost world... A very original object book, in the aesthetics and universe of piracy: the object is indeed thought as if it were the cartographer's sketchbook, worn, aged and battered by stays in salted water...

GRAPHIC NOVEL

STARS IN THEIR EYES - Jessica Walton, Aśka

Set at a fantasy fiction convention featuring disabled, queer characters. Maisie and her mum are going on a road trip to Maisie's first ever fan convention. Maisie has always dreamed of meeting her hero and role model, an amputee actor who plays a kick-arse amputee character in Maisie's favourite TV show.

Fancon is exciting and exhausting – Maisie has never met so many of her own people and finding a whole community of queer disabled people is awesome. Then she meets Ollie, and they have an instant connection. They share poffertjes and life stories and a love of fan fiction. Everything would be perfect, if only they didn't live so far apart.
